However, the Company shall be deemed irrevocably authorized to deliver at its discretion the report and/or certificate to a third party if, on the Client's instructions, a promise to this effect has been given to its third party or such promise is impliedly derived from circumstances, business custom, usage or practice.

 2. Documents reflecting commitments made between the Client and third parties, or documents of third parties, such as copies of sales contracts, letters of credit, bills of lading, etc., are considered (if received by the Company) for information only, without extending or restricting the mission obligations accepted by the Company.

The Company's acceptance of the instructions in no way indemnifies the Client for ambiguities that may materially affect the result of the work.
 2. The reports and/or certificates issued after the tests and/or analysis of samples contain the Company's specific opinion on those samples only, but do not express any opinion on the bulk of which the samples were drawn. If an opinion on bulk is requested, special arrangements must be made in advance with the Company for bulk inspection and sampling. Once the results of the analysis have been issued by the Company, if any doubt arises regarding the accuracy of the results, either on the part of the Company or the Client, the Company reserves the right to re-verify and modify as they see fit.

 10. The Company shall be entitled, at its discretion, to delegate the performance of all or part of the services contracted with the Client to any agent or subcontractor.
 11. If the Client's requirements require the analysis of samples by a third-party laboratory, the Company will transmit the result of the analysis, but without liability for its accuracy. Similarly, where the Company can only witness an analysis carried out by the Client or by a third party's laboratory, the Company will provide confirmation that the correct sample has been analyzed but will not be responsible for the accuracy of any analysis or result.
